FLORIDA

SPRING TRAINING

Baseball is a great, all-American sport that I really enjoyed growing up. Baseball teaches you the value of hard work, teamwork and performance under pressure. For decades, cities throughout Florida have been fortunate to host MLB Spring Training games in the Grapefruit League, including my hometown of Dunedin where I played Little League.

With our beautiful weather, top notch facilities and unrivaled fanbase, I look forward to another successful MLB Spring Training season and wish every team participating in the Grapefruit League the very best.

— Governor Ron DeSantis

Welcome to one of the highlights of the sports year in the State of Florida. The 2020 Major League Baseball Florida Spring Training season.

For just over 30 days in February and March, Florida is in the spotlight of the national sports eye as Major League Baseball players prepare for their upcoming seasons.

The 2020 season brings new hope for all 15 teams involved and a couple of new and renovated facilities. The Atlanta Braves begin play in the brand new CoolToday Park in North Port and the Toronto Blue Jays return to Dunedin for renovated TD Ballpark.

Here's hoping baseball fans visiting Florida in 2020 have an opportunity to check out those new ballparks as well as the other 11 that make up the Florida Grapefruit League. Play Ball!

— Jesse Biter, Chairman
Florida Sports Foundation Board of Directors

SPRING TRAINING BASEBALL BENEFIT TO

The 2018 Florida Grapefruit League generated an economic impact of $687.1 million for the State of Florida. The Florida Grapefruit League takes place annually during the Major League Baseball (MLB) Spring Training season and features 15 MLB teams in 12 cities.

The 2018 Florida Spring Training Economic Impact Study was completed by Tallahassee-based Downs & St. Germain Research to determine the Grapefruit League's overall economic impact, including number of attendees, jobs created, and the overall associated wages for employees.

The study showed a 61% increase from the adjusted total of the last study completed in 2009. The new methodology accounted for fans who attended multiple games during Spring Training not previously included in the 2009 study. Approximately 1,500 of the 1,497,306 attended fans were surveyed to generate the League's economic impact and fan spending throughout the 13 Spring Training ballparks. Fan spending data was collected during multiple games at all 15 Florida Spring Training teams' games between February 23 and March 27.

A key finding of the survey showed that of the averaged total of 6,318 fans per game, 70% were from outside of the host teams' local markets (52% out of state; 18% out of county). Those fans generated nearly $584 million in economic impact. In this survey, non-local fans are categorized as individuals who were not residents of the counties in which the 13 ballparks are located.

Downs & St. Germain's findings also showed that 7,152 jobs are created annually by Florida Spring Training, accounting for $253.5 million in wages. Fans attending games were responsible for 355,590 paid accommodation room nights at Florida-based lodging destinations. In total, fans attended an average of 2.9 games.

The Sunshine State's annual MLB Spring Training continues to connect with fans throughout Florida and the country as those who surveyed gave their experience in Florida an average 9.3 rating on a 10-point scale.

86% of fans made plans, to return for the 2019 Florida Spring Training season.
